Oklahoma State Parks App Now Available
From Oklahoma Tourism & Recreation Department

Users can find nearby parks, learn more about each park and make reservations.

OKLAHOMA CITY – Spread out across Oklahoma are more than 30 Oklahoma State Parks. Visitors to the parks will find beautiful scenery, inviting accommodations and a diverse range of activities and amenities.

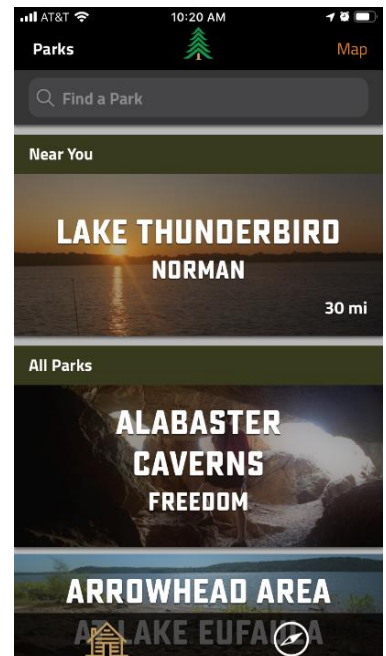

The Oklahoma Tourism & Recreation Department has created a new app that will make it easier for travelers to find nearby state parks, learn more about what’s available at each one and book reservations.

Launched Monday, the Oklahoma State Parks app is available free in Apple’s App Store and in Google Play Store.

“The Oklahoma State Parks are not a one-size-fits-all experience,” said Jerry Winchester, executive director of the Oklahoma Tourism & Recreation Department. “There is truly something for everyone at these parks and we wanted an app that would allow travelers to easily see all the opportunities available to them. This app should make trip planning easier and provide a better user experience for visitors once they get to the parks.”

The app features a wealth of information on each park, and it provides links for users to book camping and lodging reservations and tee times for the state park golf courses. Each park also has a deals page that showcases available discounts.

The app also provides extensive information for the many Oklahoma State Parks hiking trails, including maps, trail length and type.

“To have our state park amenities now available to our visitors in one easy-to-us app is exciting,” said Oklahoma State Parks Director Kris Marek. “Especially the trails information, since there are so many hiking, biking and equestrian opportunities in our state parks.”

The app’s home page also includes a feature that shows what state parks are nearby, and visitors can select their favorite parks to make it even easier to access information on those parks.

To download the Oklahoma State Parks app, visit the App Store or Google Play Store.
